

Ranjeet Deshmukh Dental College and Research Centre, Nagpur

Department of Oral Medicine & Radiology
"Value Added Course"

Communication Skills for Post graduates

About the course: Communication skills is one of the important competencies to be developed and practiced for dental health professionals. Dental post graduates are required to be trained for these skills during their initial years of learning. Department of Oral Medicine & Radiology has designed a module for post graduate students that would guide them to understand components of communication skills, dealing with different types of patients and prescription writing and its applications. This course has two days session with assessment at the end of it.

Participants: The course is designed to develop clinical competency through this training based on communication skills for the first year post graduate students.

Objectives: To develop clinical competency on communication skills among first year post graduation student.

Course Details:

- Pre-test & Introduction
- Components of CS
- Types of CS
- Dealing with patients, peers, teachers and non-teaching staff
- Case studies & role plays

Duration: Two Days

For details contact
omr.vspm@gmail.com